13:40 – 14:15 Keynote address Nigel Edwards, Chief Executive, Nuffield Trust

14:25 – 15:35 Breakout sessions:

1. Safety in the hospital sector: building cultures of success

There has rightly been an increasing focus on patient safety in hospitals both in the NHS and the independent sector. This session will focus on how we can create and sustain organisational cultures that promote safe care, and deal effectively with problems when they do occur. We will also look at what we can learn from other industries and what the NHS and the independent sector can learn from those who do it best.

Chair: Dr Howard Freeman, Clinical Director, NHS Partners Network

Speakers: Wendy Bartle, Quality Care Partner, Nuffield Brentwood
Jodie Sinclair, Head of Employment, Immigration & Pensions, Bevan Brittan
Grahame Whitfield, Care Quality Commission
Michael Watson, Culture & Leadership Programme Lead, NHS Improvement

2. Will the future ever arrive? The promise of the digital revolution in healthcare

The past decades have seen many industries revolutionised by digital technology. But healthcare has always seemed to be a stubborn exception with the promise of new technology always just around the corner. Are things changing today? Are there examples of new technologies that are on the shelf for the health system to adopt? This session will look at why we are slow to take up new technologies, and how digital technology is changing our approach to supporting the most vulnerable patients.

Chair: Trevor Purt, Vice President International Healthcare, Simpler Consulting / IBM
Watson Health Consulting Services

Speakers: Jim Easton, Managing Director of Health Care, Care UK
Tom Denwood, Executive Director for Data, Insights and Statistics, NHS Digital
Vincent Buscemi, Partner, Bevan Brittan

3. Changing the narrative: shifting focus to community based care

There is strong evidence available that investment and innovation in the community setting not only benefits patients, but also helps to deliver care at a lower cost. Yet the community sector doesn't always get the focus it deserves, even in the context of moving towards more integrated models of care. This session will look at how we can change the narrative about the importance of community based care, and how commissioners can get the best possible providers to deliver care in integrated systems?

- Chair: David Furness, Director of Policy and Delivery, NHS Partners Network
- Speakers: Professor Andrew Walton, Executive Chair, Connect Health
Sarah Scobie, Deputy Director of Research, Nuffield Trust
Sara Bainbridge, Head of Policy and Delivery, NHS Clinical Commissioners

15:35 – 15:55 Refreshments and networking

15:55 – 16:45 Integrated not insular: a collaborative approach to delivering the 10 year plan

The NHS is on a journey to a model of care that will look very different from today. With the introduction of the 10 year plan, integration and collaboration/partnership are at the heart of the changes that will help the healthcare sector design care around the needs of our patients, especially those who live with multiple chronic conditions and have complex care requirements. But whilst this approach challenges providers to think differently about how they work together in place based systems, how do we ensure that integration doesn't become insular? That systems look outwards, not inwards?

- Chair: David Hare, Chief Executive, NHS Partners Network
- Speakers: Ben Dyson, Executive Director of Strategy, NHS Improvement
Matthew Swindells, National Director: Operations and Information, NHS England
Rob Webster, West Yorkshire and Harrogate STP lead
Professor Jo Pritchard, Director of Health and Social Care, Social Enterprise UK
