Credentially

What We Do

Transform the business process for healthcare organizations and recruiters to automate candidate onboarding, credentialling and continued compliance.

How We Do It

Credentially is the healthcare industry's leading automated compliance and onboarding tool. We help organisations internationally to deliver exceptional care to patients by reducing the time clinicians and HR teams spend on paperwork and compliance.

Why We Do It

To help employers and clinicians to spend less time on admin, easing their burden so they can spend more time taking care of patients and improve patient safety.

By 2030, each year we will:

Add 10 Million hours of patient care to healthcare systems

Credential 1 Million healthcare workers

If you've ever felt held back by an over-reliance on manual processes, we're here to empower you with smart, customisable automation. Save time, reduce risk and boost operational efficiency.

The Independent Sector Complaints Adjudication Service (ISCAS)

The Independent Sector Complaints Adjudication Service (ISCAS) is a UK Department for Health approved not-for-profit independent dispute resolution service for the Independent Healthcare Sector. Recognised by the CQC, HIW, HIS and RQIA, subscription to ISCAS provides subscribing organisations with the independent review of complaints that is required by the four UK nation regulators.

ISCAS subscribers can adopt the industry recognised ISCAS Code of Practice for standards in complaints handling which provides a roadmap for effective complaint handling and a final independent adjudication process for deadlocked complaints provided by expert ISCAS adjudicators.

Subscribers to ISCAS have access to:

- The adoption of the ISCAS Code
- Providing patients with access to independent adjudication for deadlocked disputes
- Learning, feedback and support from ISCAS experts

Governance and stakeholder engagement are an important element of ISCAS's work and our Advisory Board chaired by Baroness Fiona Hodgson CBE comprises of stakeholders from subscribing businesses and patient representatives.

ISCAS is owned and operated by the Centre for Effective Dispute Resolution, one of Europe's largest dispute resolution charities.

Nockolds

An effective mediation service provides a faster, better, more cost-effective proportionate approach to complaint resolution, and supports a learning culture through insight sharing. As such, the service benefits the healthcare provider, healthcare professionals and patients.

The Nockolds Healthcare Complaints Resolution Service (HCRS) provides private healthcare companies of all sizes with the resources and experience to do that. Our impartial, efficient and effective resolution service enhances the healthcare provider's existing internal complaints processes. HCRS offers an escalation stage where a well established, independent complaint resolution process supports the patient and provider to reach a mutually acceptable conclusion. Our experience of resolving healthcare complaints in a range healthcare sectors and settings mean the team are well placed to determine whether a mediation resolution process is appropriate.

The current services use mediation techniques to handle over 5,300 complaints a year received directly from the consumer, directed by practices, and referred by Regulators. Regulator referrals account for, on average across the services, 16% complaints received, and the complaint resolution services provide patients with a more proportionate and person centred process, and reduces the escalation into FtP, legal processes, and in many cases, social media reviews. With resolution rates through mediation of over 80%, the service demonstrate how a mediation based approach acknowledges and address the emotive nature of healthcare complaints and satisfy the needs providers, practitioners and patients.

Public Digital

We help health and care organisations redesign how they work and deliver services to improve everyone's experience of care.

New health technology is improving how people can be treated and cared for, but redesigning how health systems work to best support patients remains exceptionally hard. Many services remain siloed, with poor data sharing, systems that don't talk to each other, or clunky digital products. Transformation can be held back by institutional norms, short-term decision making or change fatigue.

We work with health and care providers and across systems to change their ways of working, ultimately achieving the full promise of digital and improving people's outcomes.

What we do:

1. We build the digital capability of healthcare organisations, and build new digital ways of working to improve services and reduce risk.
2. We help redesign healthcare system and provider operating models to deliver better outcomes for patients.
3. We coach healthcare leaders, providing them with the knowledge and experience to deliver transformational digitally-enabled change.
4. We co-design new digital healthcare products and services in complex multi-stakeholder contexts.

RIVIAM Digital Care

RIVIAM provides a digital platform and services that improve access to care and enable seamless co-ordination across health, social care and third sector organisations.

Integrated with clinical systems such as TPP SystmOne™, EMIS Web, Rio and EPRs, RIVIAM ensures secure, real-time data sharing so health and care organisations can work together around a single record. Our services include:

- Care Co-ordination: A Single Point of Access and a Multi-agency Hub streamline referrals, manage cases and co-ordinate care across NHS, social care and third sector partners, including secure management of multi-disciplinary team (MDT) meetings.
- Hospital to Home: A single digital form and a Care Control Dashboard speed up discharges for medically fit patients, improving flow and freeing up beds.
- Digital Immunisation Service: Provides digital Consent and immunisation services to improve uptake of school-aged vaccinations, reduce costs and maximise team productivity.
- Digital Front Door: Includes a Patient Engagement Platform (integrated with clinical systems and the NHS App) for patients to book, manage and amend appointments. It also features a Secure Referral Portal and a Referrer's Hub for digital, auto-routed referrals, status tracking and secure document sharing.

RLDatix

Who We Are

RLDatix supports health and care organisations across the globe in raising the standard of care. We are a global leader in connected healthcare operations, partnering with organisations across the NHS, independent health, and social care sectors.

What We Do

RLDatix helps health and care organisations deliver safer, more effective care by connecting insight, governance, and workforce.

Right People, Right Care, Right Outcomes

Our solutions enable providers to strengthen clinical governance, improve quality and safety, optimise workforce deployment, and meet regulatory requirements, ensuring the right people are in the right place to deliver the best care, for the right outcomes.

Supporting Independent Health and Care

Alongside our extensive work with the NHS, RLDatix partners with a wide range of independent health and social care providers, supporting organisations to deliver high-quality, safe, and sustainable care in increasingly complex operating environments. We partner with many of the UK's leading independent healthcare and social care providers, supporting organisations across acute, specialist, mental health, and community services to strengthen governance, improve safety, and deliver outstanding care. Across the independent sector, RLDatix supports providers to move beyond compliance, using insight and data to drive continuous improvement and better outcomes for patients and service users.

Our Impact

By connecting insight, governance, and workforce, RLDatix supports health and care organisations to put the right people in the right place, delivering the right care for the right outcomes — ultimately raising the standard of care... everywhere.

Song Capital

Song Capital is a specialist healthcare real estate investment partner, providing long-term debt & equity solutions that enable healthcare operators to access, grow and optimise their real estate. Our focus is on supporting operators through flexible, aligned funding structures that strengthen balance sheets and enable investment in clinical services, people and innovation. We pride ourselves on offering a 'best of both worlds' solution to owner operators by enabling the release of capital tied up in real estate which can be deployed into delivering operational growth, at the same as enabling owner operators to retain financial value through maintaining asset-backing.

Since 2022, we have provided c.£1.75bn of highly bespoke and flexible financing to best-in-class owner operators across the acuity spectrum in the UK & Europe. We recognise that healthcare organisations perform best when management attention and capital are focused on care delivery rather than property ownership. Song Capital therefore acts as a strategic capital partner — financing and stewarding real estate while aligning closely with operator objectives and long-term service delivery.

Song Capital's role is not that of a traditional landlord. It is instead a long-term funding and infrastructure partner — enabling operators to scale, adapt and deliver high-quality care within facilities supported by committed, sector-focused capital.

WTW

At WTW, we move beyond the conventional role of an insurance broker to be your partner in strategically managing risk. We continually evolve to meet the changing needs of the healthcare industry, delivering solutions that address both current and emerging risks. Our expertise spans critical areas including, but not limited to, patient safety, clinical risk management, workforce risk, digital transformation, medical malpractice, third-party liability, ESG, asset and revenue protection - all to help you build resilience and operational excellence.

As part of our ongoing commitment to patient safety, our team includes a Clinical Risk Consultant – a qualified doctor with a background in orthopaedic surgery and clinical governance. Their medical expertise and advocacy help our clients maintain the highest standards of care, improve their clinical risk profile and effectively communicate these exposures during the insurance placement process.

Our multi-disciplinary team, supported by robust analytics and data-driven insight, deliver comprehensive and cost-effective insurance protection. Our proactive approach to risk management enables providers to effectively target risk management investment, promoting patient safety, optimising resource allocation and building long-term growth and resilience.
